[Registered as a Newspaper.] ONE HALFPENNY.

WARNEFORD, V.C., COMES HOME.

They brought Lieut. Warneford, V.C., home last night. To the capital of the Empire he had served so nobly came the body of the gallant airman, who for ten short days was the hero of his countrymen and the idol of France. The coffin, draped with the Union Jack and covered with wreaths and floral emblems—including a miniature aeroplane and an aviator's helmet—was placed on a naval gun-carriage and drawn through the streets by men of the Royal Naval Air Service to Brompton Cemetery, where the funeral takes place to-day. A vast crowd, standing with bowed uncovered heads, paid a silent tribute to the passing of the hero.—(Daily Sketch Photograph.)

WAR LOAN FOR ALL: EVERY "DOLLAR" A SILVER BULLET.

HOW TO HELP THE WAR WITH YOUR SAVINGS.

Begin With Five Shillings, Snowballing Up To £5 Gold Bonds.

MR. McKENNA'S TRIUMPH.

Novel Attractions of New Issue To Fill £518,000,000 Deficit.

ALL CLASSES INVITED TO SWELL THE WAR FUND.

Five shillings will make you an investor in the new Government War Loan.

You can take your money to the Post Office, to a trade union office, or to other places to be announced, and receive in return a voucher.

For each complete calendar month the money is lent to the country you will get interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum.

When you have got £5 worth of vouchers you can exchange them for a £5 bond.

You can exchange your vouchers for cash at any Post Office, but in that case they will not carry interest.

As a holder of the new War Loan stock you will be entitled to any higher interest that may be fixed for any future loan.

These are the popular features of the new Government War Loan, announced by Mr. McKenna in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, to provide for a deficit of £518,000,000.

It is the first opportunity given to the small investor to put his money in Government securities, with the exception of the Post Office Savings Bank system. But the Post Office Savings Bank gives only 2½ per cent. interest.

In time of peace it would be impossible for the investor to obtain anything approaching this interest on a British gilt-edged security.

And the investor has the supreme satisfaction of knowing that he is playing his part in helping to swell the war fund that will enable us to bring the Kaiser to his knees.

Other features of the new loan scheme are:—

Special terms to holders of Consols, Government annuities, and holders of old War Loan stock (issued at 3½ per cent., and now standing at 95).

Loan to be issued at par—that is, £100 will be the issue price of £100 worth of stock.

Loan to be redeemable in 1925 if the Government wish, and not later than 1945.

No limit to the amount. Government will take all that is offered.

Allotment closed on July 10.

SPENDING £3,000,000 A DAY.

Stock Issue Arranged To Suit Large And Small Investors.

Mr. McKenna stated that a deficit of £518,000,000 had to be made good by receipts other than revenue.

Their expenditure to-day was nearly three millions a day, and was rising.

The loan would be at 4½ per cent., and would be issued at par, repayable at par 1925-45.

The loan is to be payable by instalments up to October 26, and the first dividend will become due on December 1.

HOW TO EXCHANGE STOCK.

New rights are to be given to old holders of the November War Loan. Holders of Consols and of 2½ and 2½ per cent. annuities are to be given an opportunity of retrieving their position. Holders of old War Loan stock and of Consols will be able to convert their holdings into new War Loan stock. £75 in Consols will be convertible into £50 in the new loan.

Later he explained that the holders of old war stock must subscribe to the new before they could convert the old.

[Replying to a question, he said a man holding £100 worth of old War Loan stock would have to bring £100 plus his old stock (issued at 95) plus £5 if he wished to convert the old War stock, and he would get in return new War stock valued at £200.]

Three methods of issue for the stock would be adopted:—

- 1.—Through the Bank of England in £100 bonds.
- 2.—Through the Post Office in £5 and £25 bonds.

3.—In vouchers of 5s. and multiples of 5s. issued through the Post Office, trade unions, etc. These vouchers to carry interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum for each complete month. Holders of the present War Loan will be entitled to any higher interest that may be fixed in any future loan.

On reaching £5 the 5s. vouchers will be converted into a £5 bond. The holder of a voucher can pay it into the Post Office as deposit in a Post Office account.

MORE LUCID THAN LLOYD GEORGE

5/- Vouchers Expected To Take The Public Imagination By Storm.

From Our Lobby Correspondent.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, Monday.

Everyone, save a few who grumble that the House always gladly swallows anything if only it be big enough, praised the speech of Mr. McKenna yesterday.

Many said it was the finest speech by a Chancellor of the Exchequer they had ever heard, not forgetting Mr. Lloyd George, who usually made poor ones.

Mr. McKenna had written out what he proposed to say and learned it by heart, so his speech was lucid, well delivered and short.

Of all the features of the loan the 5s. voucher is expected to strike the public imagination most and most will be heard of it.

Members were to-day discussing the possibility of its being regarded more or less as legal tender.

Wages, of course, must not be paid in kind to avoid penalties under the Truck Act, but is it possible for an employer who agrees to give his men, say, a war bonus of 5s. a week, to pay this sum in 5s. vouchers?

It might be if he made the gift voluntarily, but suppose it be in response to a demand?

Obviously the vouchers would have to be paid for by the employer and the recipient could handle the document at its face value and dispose of it to anyone else if he so wished, since behind it would be the State guarantee.

EMPLOYERS CAN HELP.

Mr. E. Montagu, in reply to criticisms, explained that the 5 per cent. on 5s. vouchers would not be paid from the day of purchase, but from the first day of the first completed month after purchase.

They relied for a considerable subscription in this direction on the energy of those who had any influence with those earning a weekly wage.

The conversion of these vouchers into the War Loan would take place between December 1 and 15.

£5 FOR £4 19s. 4d.

How The Post Office Enables Smaller Investor To Participate.

Precise instructions for smaller investors through the Post Office are given in a notice which says subscribers will receive as favourable terms as subscribers of large amounts through the Bank of England.

On application at any Money Order Office you can purchase for cash War Loan to the value of £5, or any multiple of £5, and a discount of 8d. in each £5 will be allowed you. That is, you can purchase £5 stock for £4 19s. 4d.

You will receive on payment a receipt in exchange for which you will subsequently be sent a stock certificate when you have been registered as a stockholder.

A full half-year's dividend at the rate of 4½ per cent. per annum will be paid on December 1, 1915, and on June 1 and December 1 in each succeeding year.

Dividends will either be remitted to you by warrant payable on demand at any money-order office on production of your stock certificate, or will be credited to you in a Savings Bank account as you may desire.

You may purchase at any money-order office scrip vouchers of the value of 5s., 10s. and £1.

You will be entitled to interest on the amount you have invested at the rate of one penny per £ (a farthing for 5s.) for each complete month from the date of purchase of each scrip voucher up to December 1, and you will receive in addition a bonus of 1s. for each £5.

War Loan purchased through the Post Office may be sold at any time at market price, less a small commission, on application at any money order office.

BANK OF ENGLAND SCENES.

Stacks Of Prospectuses In Courtyard Besieged By Queues Of City Men.

Almost before Mr. McKenna had finished his speech in the House of Commons there was a rush of would-be investors. When the Bank of England closed its normal business day long queues of City men formed up patiently awaiting the issue of the prospectus.

Upon the merits of the issue there was but one opinion, and that was that it was the most attractive investment which has been offered in modern times. General approval was expressed of the facilities offered to the public of subscribing for small amounts.

The prospectus was issued at 7.30, at which time the queue had swollen to enormous proportions. Lord Cunliffe, the Governor of the Bank of England, arrived a few minutes before the distribution, which took place in the open courtyard.

The applicants were admitted in sections, a large staff of assistants handing out supplies of the prospectus and the forms which accompany it, these being stacked on long tables in the courtyard.

[Full prospectus of the new War Loan will be found on Page 11.]

BRIDES IN THE BATHS TRIAL TO-DAY.

Mr. William Le Queux To Report It For The Daily Sketch.

The "Brides in the Baths" trial, as it has come to be known, will be opened at the Old Bailey to-day.

Recognising the great public interest which has been taken in the case, the Daily Sketch has specially commissioned Mr. W. le Queux to write for it each day a long, comprehensive and exclusive account of the proceedings.

WILLIAM LE QUEUX. (Hoppe.)

Everybody knows or has read Mr. le Queux's writings, and our readers may rest assured that the various phases of this great human drama to be enacted at the Old Bailey will be presented to them through the medium of the Daily Sketch in its proper proportions and without exaggerations.

WHO'S WHO AT THE BAR.

George Smith, the prisoner, will take his trial for the murder of three women with whom he went through the ceremony of marriage, and all of whom were found dead in their baths.

The case for the prosecution will be placed before the jury by Mr. Bodkin, the well-known counsel who so often represents the Crown in murder cases. It is believed that it will take him nearly a week to present his case and call over 100 witnesses.

For the defence Mr. Marshall Hall, K.C., has been retained. This gentleman has a great experience in big murder trials, and always fights hard for his client.

THE GALLANT H.A.C.

Captured Trench Held Despite Murderous Machine-Gun Fire.

News has reached the Hon. Artillery Company's headquarters in London of a very stiff and gallant fight on the part of men of their 1st Battalion.

The H.A.C. captured a German trench, and held it in spite of murderous machine-gun fire until a Scottish battalion was able to come up in support and consolidate the position gained. There are several instances of individual gallantry and of recommendations for decoration.

Latest casualty lists from the Western front comprise the names of 2,947 non-commissioned officers and men of the British and Canadian regiments. They include the following:—

	British.	Canadian.	Total.
Killed	236	68	304
Died of wounds	62	29	91
Died of gas	12	—	12
Wounded	795	1,110	1,905
Wounded and gassed	25	—	25

"KING OF GREECE NOT POISONED."

Suffering From A Natural Illness, Says German Professor.

A representative of the Berlin Vossische Zeitung interviewed Professor Kraus, who on Saturday returned to Berlin from the sick bed of King Constantine (says a Reuter Amsterdam message).

Professor Kraus stated that the King had neither been poisoned nor wounded, but suffered from a natural illness. The first symptoms were those of influenza, and the Greek doctors at once diagnosed pleurisy in the right side, which quickly grew worse.

After two operations the King is not yet out of danger, as owing to the quickly diminishing opening, the heart is being drawn into the right cavity of the chest, which produces irregularity of the pulse.

Professors Kraus and Eiselsberg are of opinion that with careful treatment and nursing, in spite of possible little incidents, His Majesty will recover.

CHATHAM'S OLDEST INHABITANT.

Under the direction of officials of the British Museum excavations are being made on Government land near Chatham to secure intact the skeleton of a mammoth found during some digging operations there.

As each part of the remains is disinterred it is placed in plaster of Paris and carefully packed ready for removal. One tusk which was dug out measured nine feet in length.

NO ESCAPE FOR GERMAN SPY.

The Court of Appeal yesterday dismissed the appeal of the man Muller, who was recently sentenced to death for espionage.

Five judges heard the appeal, which was made on legal grounds, and to enable further evidence to be called.

K. OF K'S BIRTHDAY PRESENT.

Widespread Approval Of Daily Sketch Scheme.

RECRUITS AS A GIFT.

Write At Once For Special Enlistment Armlets.

The suggestion of the Daily Sketch that the 65th birthday of Lord Kitchener, which falls upon Thursday, should be celebrated by an influx of recruits to the colours has found favour with the public.

The scheme, which proposes that any reader unable to join the Services should find a suitable substitute, was only mooted yesterday. It was then suggested that such recruits should openly announce that their sacrifice or the nation was due to a desire to show their esteem for Lord Kitchener by proceeding to the enrolment offices wearing armlets emblazoned "Lord Kitchener's Recruits." These armlets were to be issued free by the Daily Sketch to anyone who cared to write or call for them.

SUCCESS OF THE IDEA.

The success of the idea was quickly apparent. Without waiting to receive their armlets, several men readers of the Daily Sketch staggered recruiting sergeants by announcing themselves as Kitchener's Birthday Present. It was not until the sergeants were shown copies of the paper by the would-be soldiers that the sergeants realised that they were dealing with men who meant business.

London was quick to seize upon the idea, which long before noon had received the blessing of Major Sir Pieter Stewart Bam, chief recruiting officer for the City of London Territorial district. Sir Pieter is the debonair South African campaigner who commands the 3/7 City of London Regiment, and recruited over 2,000 men in less than 10 weeks; so he is a judge upon matters relating to voluntary enlistment. So impressed with the idea was Sir Pieter Bam that he decided to hold a recruiting campaign in the City to-morrow.

ALEXANDRA DAY MARCH.

"I think the Daily Sketch scheme exceptionally brilliant, and likely to be productive of considerable good," said Sir Pieter to a representative of the Daily Sketch yesterday afternoon. "I am out for recruits for the Honourable Artillery Company, the London Rifle Brigade, the 6th City Rifles, the 7th Battalion the City of London Regiment, and the 8th Post Office Rifles, and I feel sure your scheme will help me. I have already applied for several thousands of your armlets."

"I have been looking for a scheme like this, and my plan now is to have a big recruiting march through the City on Wednesday. That's Alexandra Rose Day, and the day before Lord Kitchener's birthday. About 100 members of the Women's Volunteer Reserve and 100 members of my own battalion are going to assist me, and there will also be the Lord Mayor's band and the band of my battalion."

"And we're going to find arms for those Daily Sketch armlets."

WHAT YOU HAVE TO DO.

Meantime Ireland had not been slow to see virtue in the scheme. From Tralee came the news that the Royal Munster Fusiliers at Tralee had decided to celebrate Lord Kitchener's birthday by a recruiting campaign in County Kerry, the county in which the War Minister first saw the light of day. The assistance of the Daily Sketch was sought, and a consignment of armlets was immediately dispatched.

There is no time to be lost by those admirers of Lord Kitchener who are anxious to show their great appreciation of him in the manner outlined by the Daily Sketch. His birthday is on Thursday—only two more days—and what you have got to do in this time is:—

First: Send to the Daily Sketch for a supply of Kitchener's Birthday Recruiting armlets. They will be supplied free of all cost, but you must send, and not call, for them.

Second: If you can offer your services to the country place an armlet upon yourself and attend at the nearest recruiting depot.

Third: If you cannot enter the Services find those who can and persuade them to offer themselves as Kitchener's Birthday Recruits.

This is a scheme in which everyone of our numerous women readers can assist. After all, there is no recruiting sergeant who can compare with a woman, whose task, in this instance, should be lightened from the fact that the men will know that their enrolment is really to be a tribute to the War Minister.

There are many Britons, however, who prefer to serve afloat. Well, those who do will be paying Lord Kitchener just as much homage if they join the Royal Navy, the Royal Marines, or the Royal New Armies, as if they joined units of the

THE SAD, SILENT HOME-COMING OF WARNEFORD, V.C.

GERMANS ADMIT THEY ARE FALLING BACK.

Two Positions Abandoned To The French.

BIG ADVANCE IN LORRAINE.

Enemy's First Line Captured On A Front Of 1,500 Yards.

The French are taking a fresh offensive on the east of their line and are gaining important successes, which even the German wireless news is forced to admit.

In Lorraine a first line trench has been captured on a front of 1,500 yards and held against a strong counter-attack.

East of Lunéville the Germans withdrew, on their own confession, "in the face of superior forces."

In Alsace, they confess, they "evacuated systematically" the village of Metzeral "to avoid unnecessary losses."

The fall of Metzeral will give fresh impetus to the French offensive in the difficult Vosges country. The place was really taken after very hot fighting.

On the western section of the French line the progress towards Souchez continues with steady success.

At Souchez the Germans are threatened from three sides, and the French are steadily closing in upon them.

DESPERATE BATTLE IN ARGONNE

Metzeral Captured By French After Vigorous Assault.

French Official News.

PARIS, Monday Night.

In the sector to the north of Arras there is no change in the position. We kept all the ground we had won.

There were to-day only quite local infantry actions which did not modify the fronts. The artillery duel continues effectively.

Our air squadrons bombarded the aviation parks of the enemy, set fire to four hangars, and hit two aeroplanes and one captive balloon.

In the western outskirts of the Argonne, across the road from Vienne le Château to Binerville, the Germans on Sunday evening delivered a violent attack, which was prepared by an intense bombardment with asphyxiating projectiles.

TWO COMPANIES BURIED.

Our advanced line gave way at certain points, two companies being buried on the spot in the wrecked trenches.

An immediate counter-attack enabled us to recover almost the whole of our initial positions. The fighting, which was quite local in character, was very severe.

On the heights of the Meuse, in the sector of the Calonne trench, after repulsing the enemy counter-attacks, we to-day extended our gains of yesterday.

A first attack made but little progress, but a second permitted us to carry more trenches to the east of those which we had occupied on Sunday. This gain was maintained like those preceding it.

In Lorraine our reconnaissances not maintaining contact with the enemy reached the works to the west of Gondrexon, and found them unoccupied.

GERMANS' "BACKWARD MOVEMENT."

The Germans in their backward movement stopped on a line of trenches to the south of Cintray.

In Alsace our progress was continued.

In the course of uninterrupted fighting after taking the cemetery of Metzeral we captured the station. We then assaulted the village, which was carried after a very hot fight. We reached the southern exits of the place and pushed our line eastward 500 yards beyond the outskirts in the direction of Meyerhof.

In these actions we again took prisoners. The total since yesterday exceeds 200.

To the north of the Fecht the enemy attempted an attack on our positions of the Reichackerkopf. He was completely repulsed.—Reuter.

TRENCHES FULL OF CORPSES.

PARIS, Monday Afternoon.

In the sector north of Arras we have made further progress towards Souchez, carrying several trenches and approaching the north-west of the village.

There was an artillery duel throughout the night. Near Dampierre (west of Peronne, in the German wedge which has its apex at St. Mihiel) an enemy attack, preceded by the explosion of three mine-chambers, was stopped dead by the fire of our artillery and infantry.

In Lorraine, near Reillon, we have followed up our advantages, and all the enemy's fire line on a front of 1,500 yards has been captured by us.

At the end of the day a strong enemy column attempted a counter-attack. It was dispersed.

Our scouting parties have advanced close to Chazelles, Gondrexon, and Les Remabois, the enemy having abandoned the territory on which fighting had been taking place.

All the German trenches which we occupy are full of corpses. We made some 20 prisoners.

In the region of Le Bonhomme we have carried by assault the spur of the Calvaire du Bonhomme, progressed on the neighbouring hills, and reached the outskirts of the village of Le Bonhomme.

In the Fecht Valley (Alsace) we continue to make progress, and have advanced beyond the cemetery of Metzeral (south of the Reichackerkopf).

Hand-to-hand fighting continues to the southwest, where we have also gained ground, and have captured 150 prisoners, including four officers and eleven non-commissioned officers.—Reuter.

BERLIN'S EXCUSES FOR DEFEAT.

German Official News.

BERLIN, Monday.

East of Lunéville we withdrew in the face of superior forces the advance posts which we had pushed forward via Gondrexon to the main positions north of this place.

In the Vosges enemy attacks in the valley of the Fecht and south thereof were repulsed with sanguinary losses.

To avoid unnecessary losses, we evacuated systematically the village of Metzeral during the night, which has been bombarded into a heap of ruins by the French artillery.—Wireless Press.

ENVELOPING THE GERMANS.

French Drawing Their Net Closer Around Souchez.

NORTHERN FRANCE, Monday.

The battle which is proceeding on three sides of Souchez has reached a stage which presages important events.

The French troops are drawing their net closer round the village.

The Germans have been driven from trenches opposite the Fond de Buval, which they had fortified with many machine-guns after having lost the ravine itself.

They must soon be forced to retire from the actual village, which is no longer the stronghold it was owing to the destruction wrought by the French shells.

The French artillery has opened a long-distance bombardment of the heights of Vimy to prevent the Germans fortifying that position.

[Vimy is between three and four miles east by south of Souchez. It was announced by the same correspondent in a recent dispatch that the Germans were making preparations to fortify these heights in anticipation of a retirement to a new and shortened line.]

Heavy cannonading has been heard this morning in the direction of the British front near La Bassée.—Central News Special.

ITALIAN ARMY 12 MILES NEARER TO TRENT.

Austrian Mountain Fortress Reported To Be In Flames.

PARIS, Monday.

A telegram from Geneva states that the Italians are strongly established on the River Gail, and are bombarding the Austrian positions at Kortisch Moos and Helm. The enemy has been driven back to the Val Sagona.

Malborghetto (in the mountains, 30 miles N.W. of Tolmino) is in flames, and the Austrians are preparing to evacuate the town.

Since June 17 the Italian troops in the Trentino have advanced twenty kilometres (about 12 miles) in the direction of Trent.

It is reported that an Italian company on the morning of June 18 put an entire Dalmatian battalion to flight, and immediately occupied some strong positions before Plava.—Central News.

EXPECTED FALLOF LEMBERG: KAISER IN GALICIA.

Germans Claim The Capture Of Rawaruska.

RUSSIANS HOLD ENEMY UP ALONG THE DNIESTER FRONT.

German official wireless news claims the capture of Rawaruska.

This is an important railway junction, through which one of the lines passes by which the Russian forces would be compelled to fall back in a retreat from Lemberg into Russia.

The Kaiser has established his quarters near the Grodek line, the strong position west of Lemberg, where the Russians have been making a splendid stand.

The Kaiser has often been a witness of German defeats; but on this occasion he has some chance of making a new record in case of a Russian withdrawal.

Berlin messages to Amsterdam yesterday afternoon stated that a Te Deum would be sung in Lemberg "when the Germans capture the city."

Along the Dniester, however, the Russians are offering a splendid resistance, which is holding the enemy in check.

"OUR LINE WAS BROKEN."

Story Of A Brilliant Charge Delivered At Critical Moment.

Russian Official News.

PETROGRAD, Monday.

The battle of Lubaczow reached its crisis when the Germans succeeded in breaking our line to the west of the town of Lubaczow and began a rapid advance in a northerly direction.

Our infantry, which had spent four days in the most arduous fighting, was exhausted.

At this moment General Volodchenko, who was supporting the infantry with cavalry, ordered the Chernigoff Hussars, the Don Cossacks, and the Kinburn Dragoons to charge the Germans.

The Germans, seized with panic all along their line of attack, took to flight. The 91st German infantry was almost entirely exterminated by sabre thrusts.

We continued our pursuit as far as a village, where the German reserves, assuming the defensive, took up a new front. Our cavalry captured five machine-guns.

The enemy, shaken by our blow, made no further attack on that day.—Reuter.

RUSSIANS ATTACK ON DNIESTER.

Austrians Held Up On River Front To The South Of Lemberg.

Austrian Official News.

VIENNA, Monday.

In the Russian theatre of war the pursuing allied troops advanced to Zolkiew, near Lemberg, and south of Lemberg to the Szezerek rivulet. The Russian troops on this line everywhere attacked.

Near Mikolajow and Zydaczow the enemy are holding their positions on the Dniester.

The troops of the army of General Pflanzer repulsed violent Russian attacks, with very heavy losses to the enemy, south-west of Potokzloty, near Zaleszyski, and in the Bessarabian frontier district.—Reuter.

PRINCE AT A BOXING MATCH.

How Tommy Amuses Himself Behind The Firing Line.

A private in the 2nd Middlesex Regiment, who arrived home from the front last night, says the Prince of Wales was an amused spectator of a boxing bout at the front recently.

"The contest," explained the private, "was arranged between the Scots and the Irish Guards. There were five inter-regimental contests, and at the end it was a case of honours divided.

"The Prince of Wales, together with some officers of the General Staff, sat in a 'box,' while the Tommies engaged the 'orchestra stalls.' During the progress of the boxing we could hear the boom of our own artillery.

"The Prince enjoyed the bouts immensely, and shook hands with the opponents in the intervals."

LAST HOME-COMING OF WARNEFORD, V.C.

Borne On A Gun-Carriage Through London Streets.

DRAWN BY BLUEJACKETS.

Whose Was The Spray Of Roses Laid On The Coffin?

The body of Lieutenant Warneford, V.C., was brought to London last night, and borne on a gun-carriage through the streets to the Chapel of Brompton Cemetery, where it now lies awaiting this afternoon's funeral.

On the arrival of the boat train at Victoria Station the coffin, enveloped in the Union Jack, was raised to the shoulders of a bearer party of bluejackets, carried to the gun-carriage, and so drawn to the cemetery.

Few people knew when the dead airman would arrive in London, and most of those who passed through the West-end streets knew that it bore the body of the man whose death had touched them as no other incident in the war has done.

The coffin left Versailles at an early hour, and the coach was attached to the Dieppe boat train at Paris. Men of the Royal Naval Air Service, under Flight-Lieut. Thurston, took charge of the coffin at Paris, and were responsible for its conveyance to Victoria.

At Folkestone it was swung ashore by a crane, and carried by a bearer party to the guard's van of the London train.

CARPETED WITH WREATHS.

Seventy bluejackets of the Royal Naval Division stood at attention when the train steamed into Victoria shortly before nine.

Neither the lieutenant's mother, Mrs. Corkery, nor his stepfather, Lieutenant-Colonel M. P. Corkery, was present, but the family was represented by Mrs. White and Miss Warneford-Corkery (the airman's sisters), and Dr. H. E. C. Corkery (his uncle).

The simple oak coffin was buried beneath a mass of wreaths, and part of the platform was carpeted with flowers before the bearers could carry the body to the waiting gun-carriage.

One of the wreaths was nine feet in length—that representing an aeroplane picked out in flowers, sent by the officers and soldiers of the British hospital.

"FROM HIS MOTHER AND SISTERS."

There were many crosses, any one of which would have covered the coffin. The tribute "From his mother and sisters" took this form, and after the coffin had been placed on the gun-carriage it was laid on the top of the enveloping Union Jack.

As the bearer party bore the body across the wreath-decked platform to the gun-carriage the double line of bluejackets stood bareheaded.

On the coffin-lid rested the dead man's cap and a small spray of roses and laurels that bore no card.

A word of command, and 18 bluejackets drew the gun-carriage slowly out of the station, with the rest of the naval contingent and the men of the naval air service, who had brought the coffin to London, as an escort.

Outside the station was the crowd that always gathers for the arrival of a boat train.

Men lifted their hats as the gun-carriage passed, but many who saw the little procession on its way to the cemetery looked at it in idle curiosity, not knowing that they were watching the last homecoming of Warneford, V.C.

LINER TRIES TO RAM U BOAT.

Prominent Americans On Board The Attacked Vessel.

The Anchor liner Cameronia, which has arrived at Liverpool from New York, was attacked during the voyage by a submarine.

Although the Cameronia was under full steam, it was found impossible to elude the submarine, so an attempt was made to ram the craft. The submarine submerged in order to avoid the steamer, and was not seen again.

The Cameronia had a number of prominent American passengers on board.

A MOTHER'S NERVES.

When the children "get on your nerves," the trouble is with your nerves, not with the children. You find yourself scolding them when you should be reasoning with them, and if you are wise you will realise immediately that your nervous system needs prompt attention.

You observe, doubtless, that you wake up in the morning unrefreshed by your night's sleep, that you often feel better at night than you do in the morning. You find you are getting irritable; things worry you that did not do so formerly, and you have headaches more frequently than ever you used to.

If you let this state of health go on uncorrected you invite a serious breakdown. The proper treatment is to take more rest, stop worrying, and build up your blood and nerves with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. PUT YOUR MONEY IN THE WAR LOAN!

HEARTY congratulations to Mr. McKenna for the manner in which he has engineered the new war loan. Breaking away from the old-fashioned British methods which kept Government stock for rich people, the new Chancellor offers an investment in which every Briton with five shillings to spare may take part. Instead of wasting shillings on "dead certs," which never come off, the working man can now put by his silver coins to buy a £5 bond in the British war loan.

AS our summary of the new issue shows, it is a most attractive investment, and it is free from those cumbersome conditions which frightened simple people off other Government loans. Now, with your five shillings you can start building up a fund which, when it amounts to £5, buys you a War Loan bond. This bond yields you 5 per cent. on your money, and no doubt the interest will be payable in the simple manner of the French bearer bonds, in which interest is collected from little coupons attached to the bond.

IT only remains for Mr. McKenna to follow the French system a little further and give us lottery bonds! Then the British working man with a taste for a "flutter" would pool, say, a half per cent. of his dividend to provide a big lottery fund. Fancy the feelings of the anti-gamblers if they heard that the British Government issued lottery bonds! And yet—who knows?

HOWEVER, sufficient for the day is the present loan. Doubtless, there will be others, and then the lottery bond may have its chance. It is now for the British public to support this loan, and by a magnificent subscription show the Germans what we can do in making "silver bullets." The new loan really comes as a public boon, for it will encourage thrift at a time when ordinary investment for the poor man is unusually dangerous and difficult. Up to the present the small investor has been disgracefully treated by the State, the banks and the public companies, whereas in Germany the State has given great attention to the savings of the people. Of course, we now know that the solicitude of the German Government was a wholly selfish one. It fed and financed its people merely to fit them for the slaughter!

IN this country we are offering neither our lives nor our money for the mad ambitions of a degenerate monarch or his Junker clique. Our soldiers are fighting for the rights of democracy, and by our war loans we are helping our Allies in the great fight for the liberty of the world. A splendid opportunity is offered by this war loan to the British public of rendering aid to the cause, and at the same time they have new facilities for safely putting by their savings.

ICANNOT lay too great emphasis on the need for providing against the period of financial and industrial depression which will inevitably come in the later stages of the war and in the first stages of peace. An enormous amount of money has been literally wasted in the war. The whole world will be made poorer, and once the crisis of the campaign is over there will be less employment in war munition manufacture. By then the world will not have recovered its purchasing power in peace products, and the labour market will be disorganised by the gradual disbanding of the armies. To meet that critical time and also to help the State to pay for the war it becomes the duty of every productive citizen to be thrifty with his money.

IFURTHER hope that the Government will arrange the formalities so that the loan can be partially taken up in the United States and other friendly countries, as this would greatly ease the future situation. At present we are shipping gold to America when they would prefer to take securities.

THE MAN IN THE STREET.

Echoes of the Town and Round About.

Is Lord Haldane Coming Back?

I HEAR that Lord Haldane will deliver an important speech in London on the 5th of next month. The likelihood of the return to public life of the ex-Lord Chancellor is giving great satisfaction in many quarters, where the loss of his powerful intellect to the national cause in consequence of ill-natured attacks has been much deplored.

"Court Life From Within."

BOOKS FULL of gossip about Royalty have been rather overdone the last few years. The subject is not always a profitable one, and involves a fair amount of doubtful information. But when a book of this type is written by a Royal Princess herself, it deserves more than ordinary attention. That curious and original personage, H.R.H. the Infanta Eulalia of Spain's "Court Life from Within" has just afforded me an interesting couple of hours. It is not thrilling. It is not particularly personal, as such books go. And it is very far from being a chronique scandaleuse of the accepted type.

What Is The Riding Whip For?

MANY GUESSES have been made as to the use of the riding whips jauntily "swished" by the lady commissionaires outside a famous Oxford-street shop. Perhaps they are to keep the flies off.

Elsie Janis As A Novel Reader.

THE BOOKSELLERS have long wailed about the death of the six shilling novel. "Six shilling novels are not what they once were! Hardly anybody buys them," say many. But I think I know of one quite good patroness of the novel, and that is Miss Elsie Janis. She buys "everything," though I believe she has a strong partiality for the works of Miss Marie Corelli.

The Girls On The Grass.

EVERY TIME I go to the Park I find more people sitting about on the grass near Stanhope Gate. On Sunday there were crowds and crowds in the late afternoon. I saw many pretty women, several in bright raiment. There were men in grey "toppers," ordinary "toppers," bowlers, Highland bonnets; there were officers, in and out of uniform, "Tommies," naval officers, and all sorts and conditions of other people.

The Lords, the Commons, and the populace were not badly represented on the whole. Indeed, Stanhope Gate has become the scene of an entirely democratic assembly.

In Memory Of A Beloved Grandson.

CORNELIA LADY WIMBORNE has, I hear, given £1,000 to the Y.M.C.A. refreshment huts for munition workers in memory of her grandson (Lady Rodney's third son), who was killed while flying in France. In many of these huts cubicles are provided, as there is a terrible shortage of cottage accommodation in some of the munition centres.

"Q"—Recruiter.

THERE IS a certain irony in the fact that Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch has accepted a commission, and is now raising recruits for the King's Army. For at the time of the South African War he was one of the most outspoken of pro-Boers. "Q," however, has always the courage of his convictions. He is, too, one of the most versatile of modern authors, being a novelist, an essayist, a poet, an athlete, a politician, and Professor of Modern Literature at Cambridge.

His First Novel.

"Q'S" FIRST NOVEL, "Dead Man's Rock," was written while its author was an undergraduate at Oxford. It has now become a classic. Through the influence of Mr. Lytton Gell, of the Clarendon Press, the future novelist secured an introduction to Cassell and Co. That firm was astute enough to see that they were on the track of a writer of more than usual promise, and they lost no time in publishing the book.

"Shalom" And The Shield Of David.

A JEWISH SOLDIER friend, who has been sending me some cheery letters from the Front, writes touchingly of the simple ceremonial that has marked the interment of his brave compatriots who have fallen in the war. Above each little mound the Jewish chaplain has arranged for the setting-up of the Jewish emblem, the Shield of David, upon which is inscribed in Hebrew lettering the simple word "Shalom," which means "Peace."

A Hint.

HERE IS a little tip for Alexandra Day tomorrow. Lots and lots of roses have been made, but both labour and material have been hard to get, and there won't be any to waste. Six roses for sixpence, or sixty roses for five bob is all right in its way, and shows a handsome profit for the fund, but the five bob for just the one rose shows a whole heap more profit, and leaves all the more roses for other people. Do you tumble?

For Someone To Ponder.

IN Frederick Scott Oliver's "Ordeal by Battle," just published, there is this passage on mistakes. "Lord Kitchener, Sir Edward Grey, Mr. Lloyd George, and Mr. Winston Churchill have all made mistakes. In a great crisis it is the bigger characters who are most liable to make mistakes. Their superiority compels them to take risks which the smaller men, playing always for safety, are concerned to avoid." Smaller men, please take notice.

Shakespeare At Drill.

A CORRESPONDENT writes: "I found myself drilling the other morning next to F. R. Benson, the famous actor, who is a very keen member of the United Arts Rifles, and he beguiled the tedium by giving me quotations from Shakespeare when we were standing easy. Mr. Benson drew a most interesting parallel between the English and the German spirit in his quotations from 'Henry V.' and 'Richard III.'" My readers will no doubt discover the passages for themselves.

Notable Sporting Trophies.

QUITE A LARGE number of well-known sportsmen put in an appearance at Christie's yesterday afternoon during the sale of the late Sir Walter Gilbey's famous collection of books. Amongst those who watched the proceedings were Lord Rosebery and Sir John Thursby. Later in the week, I understand, a splendid collection of cups and trophies will be offered for sale.

In A Carlton Lift.

I MET the smart Dorziat (here she is) in a lift at the Carlton yesterday, descending from her pretty suite of apartments at an altitude almost of Sir Herbert Tree's neighbouring dome, and she at once recognised me as the only man who interviewed Baron Henri de Rothschild over the row about "Cræsus," in which she played the leading feminine role.

"Mon Dieu!" she exclaimed, "and this is curious! We meet again in days of battle! The last time I met you the big Bouchier-Hansen war was raging in the West!"

Dorziat On Horseback.

BY THE WAY, would you like to take Dorziat for a canter in the Row? Before the war she was the smartest horsewoman in the Bois, and has been longing to "hack" her way through the early morning sporting throng in Hyde Park. But she's not riding any old hack, understand.

"An Open Letter."

"THIS IS an open letter to Mrs. Charlotte Cameron, F.R.G.S., authoress, traveller, and feminine Newnham-Davis" (writes a Cornish correspondent), "who seems to think that Cornish cooks lack imagination. Evidently you have not tested the excellence of 'leaky pasty,' nor sampled the succulence of 'star-gazing pie,' nor been brought to bay by the fascination of a saffron cake. Do not these names suggest to you a very wild flight of imagination?"

Some Pie.

"I WOULD not insult the intelligence of Mr. Gossip's readers" (my Cornishman continues) "by describing 'leaky pasty.' Only you, it would seem, are ignorant of its delights. 'But star-gazing pie! That is pie, indeed. The crust is toothsome, while the contents are fine, fat pilchards. These are made to stand their dead bodies upon their tails and, penetrating the crust, to raise their heads skywards. No imagination? Well!"

Lights Out.

WE HAVEN'T got a kick left in us in town on the subject of the darkened streets, but Brighton is rather busy saying things. There they have gone the whole hog with a vengeance, and there are no lights at all now after dark, on which a brisk little Brightonette had things to say. "Sometimes," she sighed, "I almost wish the Zepps would come. Brighton's so jolly dark now that a raid would be almost as good as a firework display."

A Record.

WHEN YOU come to consider what a House of Lords judgment can sometimes amount to, you will realise that the following, of which Lord Dunedin is the author, takes the biscuit for brevity. It was delivered in the House yesterday:

My Lords,—In this case I began to prepare a judgment in accordance with the view which I held at the conclusion of the argument, but in doing so, and on carefully re-reading the judgment of Lord Justice Kennedy in the Court below, I came to the conclusion that that learned and lamented judge had so exactly expressed the arguments that weighed with me that I should really be guilty of plagiarism if I repeated what he had already said. I shall therefore only say that I agree with his judgment in toto, and I move your lordships to dismiss the appeal with costs.

Charley's Aunt's Son A Naval Officer.

AMONG those just granted commissions in the Navy is Charles Frederick Brandon Penley, otherwise Charlie Penley, whose photo this is. Youngest son of the late W. S. Penley, of "Charley's Aunt" fame, he has just been gazetted sub-lieutenant in the Royal Naval Air Service.

Charlie Penley has already had a varied career, having been shipping clerk, actor, music-hall artiste, dramatic agent, revue producer. His brother, Fred Penley, went out with the ill-fated Naval Division on the Antwerp expedition, and is now a prisoner interned in Holland.

An Idyll.

HERE IS a little river idyll. They were husband and wife. He was well preserved, over forty and sentimental. She was not precisely well preserved, rather was she expensively renovated. They had lunched, and calm reigned in the punt. Suddenly he looked up. "Why," he said, "I believe it's five-and-twenty years ago to-day since I—since we—Don't you remember?" She smiled, "Do I remember?" she repeated. "Shall I ever forget? That was the most perfect salad I ever had in my life, and the duck—." Then a water rat dived and the charm was broken.

Maidenhead Murray's Again.

I HAD, AS you know by this time, my Maidenhead Murray's jaunt on Saturday, and couldn't manage to get down there on Sunday, when the Chateau Jack May was far more crowded. All theatrical London (of the lighter type) was there, so I'm told.

A Teetotaler's Grievance.

I HEAR from a very staunch teetotaler that he most strongly objects to the motor-omnibuses printing on their tickets, as points of call, the names of well-known public-houses. He hates having to ask to be taken to the "Angel," the "Elephant," the "Plough," Clapham, or "the 'Nag's Head,' Holloway. He wants to know why licensed houses should be advertised in this free-and-easy fashion.

"Robert Cecil, Esq., K.C., M.P."

QUITE CORRECT as was the description, it was curious nevertheless to read in the London Gazette that "Edgar Algernon Robert Gascoyne-Cecil, Esquire, K.C., M.P." was sworn of H.M. Privy Council. The writer of the "par" was careful to add "commonly called Lord Robert Cecil."

Nerviness.

WE ARE ALL just a little bit nervy, I suppose, thinking of bombs and Zeppelins. Last night in the tube nearly all the ventilating windows shut at once with a bang. Several men nearly jumped out of their skins, and one woman just managed to strangle a scream by pretending it was a cough.

The Trials Of Management.

"MORE at the Ambassadors is going great guns. "I think I stand on record," said Charlie Cochran to me yesterday, "as a manager who has twice bought seats for his own wife for his own show."

A Slight Error.

AN OPTIMISTIC CONTEMPORARY had a couple of days ago a brave heading—"To-day's Racing." Underneath was a recipe for a mushroom omelette. That's all.

What Offers?

LOTS OF people are asking me for a recipe for cider-cup. I know how to make it to suit myself, but will some real expert send one along, please, so that I can communicate the good news?

Spinal Trouble and Wasting.

Helpless Child Completely Cured by Dr. Cassell's Tablets.

Mrs. Watkin, 37, Edward-street, Hesse, Hull, says: "I shall never cease to praise Dr. Cassell's Tablets for the cure they effected in my little Gladys. She used to suffer dreadfully with stomach pains and violent headache, and she ate so little that she wasted away to a little frame of bones. She was very nervous, too, and would wake screaming with terror. Then she went quite helpless, lost all power. I had to carry her up and down stairs. We were advised to take her to hospital, as it was spinal trouble she had. This we did, but as the treatment did not benefit Gladys we had her home again, and commenced giving Dr. Cassell's Tablets. She improved wonderfully, soon she could walk a little, and so it went on till she was quite cured. She is now seven, and ever so bright and active."

The New Puzzle Can You See It?

The New Puzzle for Brainy people. Here you see three rows of circles with small rings in each circle. Each row of rings spells the name of a well-known City. The number of rings in each circle represents the position of a letter in the alphabet. Stick to it, and you can win a cash prize. We will give £100 in CASH to those persons who send us the CORRECT SOLUTIONS and fulfil all conditions of the contest, particulars of which we will send you on receipt of your solution. What Women Are Doing.

BY MRS. GOSSIP.

SIMONE, who is in Paris, sends me this charming little story of the late Lieut. Warneford, V.C. Her letter was posted on the 16th, just before his tragic and overwhelming death. "We were dining last night," she writes, "at the Ambassadors, that charming open-air restaurant in the Champs Elysées. A young English officer, wearing the Legion d'Honneur on his khaki tunic, was in a quiet corner with a party of friends. Suddenly a whisper went round, 'C'est l'aviateur Anglais, Warneford.' At once the entire company spontaneously rose to their feet and cheered and applauded the blushing young hero, who looked both surprised and embarrassed at this sudden outburst; but there was worse to come.

The oldest habitué of the restaurant, a stately comte with a flowing white moustache, strode up to the table, made a beautiful complimentary speech in academic French, and then insisted on kissing the hero on both cheeks.

Well Done, Girls!

My first portrait to-day is of Lady Harry Waechter. Let me say at once, and as delicately

LADY WAECHTER.

as I can put it, because these explanations are always uncomfortable, that neither she nor her husband has a drop of Teutonic blood despite their name. Sir Harry is a thorough-going Englishman, and his wife was a Miss D'Arcy, and comes of an old Irish family. I am mentioning her for two reasons. First, she is president of the Girls' Realm Guild, and, with Lady Evelyn Scott, received the guests at its reunion at the Ritz on Saturday. The gathering celebrated the raising by the girls of the guild of a special fund of £500 to provide skilled training for destitute girls of gentle birth.

Thrilling!

In the second place, Lady Waechter and her friends are rather anxious about Sir Harry. A few days ago he had an awfully narrow escape at the front. Fragments of a shell actually fell on the bed in which he was sleeping. But to return to the reunion. Lady Waechter was in a charming dress of white silk and a white hat. Lady Evelyn Scott wore black, with a small black bonnet. I saw there Lord and Lady Haddo, Lady Mackenzie Davidson, Mrs. Parker (Lord Kitchener's sister, who, of course, spoke), and lots more interesting people.

Lord Methuen's Son in Hospital.

Dora writes of her visit yesterday to King's College Hospital, where she went to visit a wounded friend:—"On the balconies at the back of the building," she enthuses, "you can imagine yourself in the heart of the country, for you literally are in a most delightful park." Lord Hambleton and Lord Methuen, as I happen to know, are both keenly interested in the hospital, which is worthy of the great surgeons and scientists who made its history—Lord Lister, Sir William Fergusson and many others. Now wounded soldiers occupy nearly half the beds; and there are many wounded officers, including Lord Methuen's son.

Mrs. Asquith Serves Tommy With Tea.

Lady Limerick tells me she will be very grateful for any kind of food, such as ham, potted meats, fruit, cakes and, of course, tobacco and cigarettes for her soldiers' and sailors' free refreshment buffet at London Bridge. I looked into the buffet last night and found a wonderful number of Tommies being served with coffee and tea and other refreshments. Lady Evelyn Ward was very busy helping. She was wearing a mauve linen overall, so was Lady Milbanke, whose husband, Sir John, is at the front. You remember he won the V.C. in the South African War.

Mrs. Asquith had been working there and taking the greatest interest in the buffet, also Cora Countess of Strafford, the Duchess of Abercorn, Lady Wimborne and Lord Desborough, who also came to give a hand at the counter.

Delysia Dressed.

You have read a lot about the new Ambassadors show, but you simply can't realise Delysia's frocks unless you see them. She says herself, "The Censor is pleased when I wear anything at all," so what would you be if you saw her in the lovely things she now puts on? I loved the Early Victorian dress. The crinoline suits her admirably. The skirt is of flowered chiné silk, over which a little cherry-coloured coat is worn, bordered with marabout. A tiny black velvet hat, possessing one green feather, rests upon her hair, which is worn in a net. Delysia's statuesque gown, of white tulle embroidered in silver and pearls, is particularly becoming to her slight figure. The gown is short, but it has a long train, cut square from the décolletage of handsome white brocade, and she wears an attractive headdress of black tulle and diamonds.

What To Wear In The Sea.

Haven't shopped so hard for months as I did yesterday morning. Marjorie, who is at the Isle of Wight, insisted on my selecting and dispatching at once a really chic bathing costume. "It doesn't matter what one wears out of the sea, but in the sea I must look nice" is what she writes. I found the most attractive things at Marshall and Snelgrove's, Oxford-street. Such a selection that it was hard to choose which I liked best.

I finally decided upon a black alpaca, quite a short tunic, cut square at the neck and girdled round the waist with a futurist silk cord; on the bodice and sleeves were hand-worked futurist flowers—for 49s. 6d. Bewitching cap and shoes correspond. By the way, bags can also be found there to match the bathing suit; just the right shape and size to carry it in. There were some charming black silk costumes with various trimmings for 6½ guineas.

Going?

To-day Miss Helen Mar will be the chief attraction at the Botanic Gardens at the open-air Thé Chantant given by the War Emergency Entertainments. The Femina Quartet will also take part.

So Talented.

This is a photograph of Miss Margaret Nielka, a pupil of Jean de Reszke, who is to sing at M. Henri Verbrugghen's farewell concert at the Queen's Hall on June 30. She is an artiste of many and varied accomplishments. In her early youth her aspirations were towards the stage, and that they have never quite left her is shown by the fact that she has studied opera and can sing in five different languages. Miss Nielka is also a notable sportswoman, who excels in riding, shooting, golf, tennis, and motor-driving, and for some time past she has been the organising secretary of the Lambeth Red Cross detachment. She is the niece of Lord Cowdray, and she can also play the violin.

My Needlework Competition.

I knew my readers would be pleased about Princess Arthur of Connaught becoming a patroness. The announcement and my appeal for still more workers has resulted in the entries being doubled this week. "What a lot of work it must give you," writes one. True, but I don't mind that the least little bit. It does my heart good to see the letters coming in by every post, especially when I read such sentences as "I want all my work to be sold for the benefit of the Red Cross and St. John of Jerusalem Societies"; "It is so little I can do, being an invalid; I am therefore so grateful to you for having started this admirable scheme by which every one can help." Another correspondent writes:—"Since reading your letter last week I always think of the following words when I am working: 'O Lord, grant Thou our soldiers courage high when foes are near: to strive, to suffer or to die—untouched by fear.'" This is very excellent in its way, but personally I should like to dwell on a more happy alternative than any of the three mentioned.

And now don't forget to hustle up your friends and let us have an even larger entry this coming week. In every case a self-addressed stamped envelope must be sent to Mrs. Gossip, Needlework Department, Daily Sketch, Shoe-lane, London, E.C.

Savory & Moore make from Dr. Jenner's original formula, and recommend as a valuable remedy for these complaints. The lozenges are pleasant to take and quite harmless. SIR JOHN FRENCH AND THE YOUNG TERRITORIAL.

Touching Story Of Solicitude For Grief-Stricken Lad.

MOTHER DIED BELIEVING HER SON HAD BEEN KILLED.

NORTHERN FRANCE, Monday.

A story which has just reached me illustrates in the best possible manner the solicitude for his men which is characteristic of Sir John French.

During a surprise visit behind the firing line the British Commander-in-Chief came upon a boy Territorial who was in the act of writing a letter.

Sir John was surprised to see that he was sobbing bitterly as he wrote and questioned him as to the cause of his grief.

The lad, taken unawares, made attempts to overcome his emotion, and stammered out some sort of excuses, but the Field-Marshal was not to be put off, and, speaking kindly, insisted upon knowing what was the matter.

SAD LETTER FROM HOME.

Thereupon the boy produced a letter. It was a tragic letter from a younger brother in England, telling him of the death of their mother following the receipt of an unofficial report that her son had been killed at the Front. The family, it appeared, was in humble circumstances.

General French sent the Territorial home on three weeks' leave. He gave him, moreover, a substantial sum to help pay the funeral expenses, and he dismissed him with the words:

"Bless you, my boy. Your mother, at any rate, died with the satisfaction of knowing that her son did his duty."—Central News Special Correspondent.

TWO ZEPPELINS FLYING WEST.

Seen Coming Towards England With Following Of Taubes.

AMSTERDAM, Monday.

Two Zeppelins were sighted to-day off Vlieland, Northern Holland, flying towards England at a great speed, followed by a number of Taubes.

The German aircraft flew very high whilst passing over Dutch territory, and quickly disappeared in a north-easterly direction.—Exchange Special.

DE WET FOUND GUILTY.

BLOEMFONTEIN, Monday.

De Wet has been found guilty on eight counts of the treason indictment and not guilty on two. The latter charges him with smashing telegraph office apparatus and proceeding to join the Germans.

The Court accepted prisoner's statement that he had had no intention of joining the enemy. Sentence was deferred till to-day.—Reuter.

WAR WORKER KILLED BY FUMES.

Medical evidence at an inquest at Farnborough yesterday showed that Lily Neves (23) died at the Royal Aircraft Factory, at which she was employed, from inhaling a poisonous vapour known as tetrachlorethane, thrown off from a varnish used as a "dope" in the making of aeroplanes. The inhaling of the vapour causes the liver to dry up, and the girl's liver had all but disappeared, heart failure ensuing.

ONLY A PICTURE PUZZLE SPY.

Aldershot magistrates yesterday discharged Thomas Richardson, who was charged under the Defence of the Realm Act with being in possession of suspicious documents.

Accused was able to establish his defence that the documents related to a picture puzzle entitled "Hunt the spy."

FOUND HIS HOME IN FLAMES.

Capt. A. Forbes Gordon, of the 8th Cameron Highlanders, was motoring towards his home, the Border mansion of Langlee, on the outskirts of Galashiels, yesterday, when he saw the house in flames. The children were safely removed from the nursery on the third floor, but the whole of the main block was gutted.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR YOUR STOMACH TROUBLE.

IT NEUTRALISES ACIDITY AND PREVENTS FERMENTATION.

Doubtless you have already tried pepsin, bismuth, soda, charcoal, drugs, etc., and so you know that these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases they do not even give relief—but before giving up hope and deciding that you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little magnesia—not the ordinary carbonate, oxides or citrates, but pure bisurated magnesia, which you can obtain from practically any chemist in either powder or tablet form. Take half-a-teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralise the larmful acid which now causes your food to ferment, giving rise to wind, heartburn, flatulence, and many other unpleasant symptoms, and you will find that, provided you take a little bisurated magnesia immediately afterward, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain and discomfort to follow.

BISURATED MAGNESIA can now be obtained of all chemists in mint-flavoured or effervescent tablets as well as in the ordinary powder form.—(Advt.)

WAITING TO PAY THEIR TRIBUTE TO WARNEFORD.

A vast crowd waited patiently outside Victoria Station last night to pay a tribute to the memory of Lieut. Warneford. Women wept and men were deeply moved as the body of the heroic young airman was placed on the gun-carriage.—(Daily Sketch Photograph.)

LUXURIES AT RUHLIBEN.

From Egg And Milk For Growing Boys To Golf Course And Theatre.

There are 4,500 British civil prisoners in Germany, and of these some 4,000 are concentrated at the Ruhleben camp, which early in the war was notorious among German camps for the lack of everything that mattered to the unfortunate occupants.

Now, thanks to the good offices of the American Ambassador, things have greatly improved. Indeed, a report now forwarded by his Excellency to Sir Edward Grey suggests that the occupants in the camp are having a life of comparative luxury. These are some of the reforms recently installed:—

A recreation ground with a football field and a small golf course and grand stands.

A theatre, complete with stage, scenery, dressing-rooms, orchestra, where performances varying from Shakespeare to musical shows, are given practically every night.

An educational department, wherein schools and lectures are regularly conducted, replete with all materials.

A police force of British subjects, which has greatly lessened the necessity for German soldiers in the camp.

A public library of 2,500 volumes.

A laundry, where each man may wash his own clothes every week.

A camp newspaper and a printing machine for the production of programmes, camp news, etc. It is also mentioned in the report that growing boys—40 to 50 in number—are now provided with an extra glass of milk and an egg in the morning.

NO ELECTIONS FOR A YEAR.

Mr. Asquith stated in the House of Commons that a Bill for the postponement of the elections for a year and dealing with registration for next year would be introduced forthwith.

THE TURKISH GIBRALTAR.

Positions That Would Be Untakable If In British Hands.

All the wounded brought to Egypt from the Gallipoli Peninsula, says a Reuter special telegram from Alexandria, speak of the difficulties that have to be encountered in the Allies' advance.

Achi Baba is described as a small "Gibraltar," and one officer remarked that the British soldiers were being asked to take positions which, if held by the British, would be untakable by anybody else.

In the attack at Gaba Tepe the Turks were warned that if they wavered or attempted to retire they would be annihilated by their own machine-guns.

When 100 yards from our trenches the Turks flung themselves on the ground and maintained hot rifle fire, while the second line passed through them at the double. The first line then joined them, the whole coming on in close formation with bayonets fixed.

Our guns met them at point-blank range

MR. RONALD M'NEILL'S LATEST.

Mr. Ronald M'Neill in the House of Commons asked whether the War Office were aware of the indignation excited by a statement that Lieutenant von Tirpitz, son of the German Admiral responsible for the submarine policy, had been released on parole.

Mr. Tennant said that as Lieutenant von Tirpitz had not been released on parole or otherwise, the hon. gentleman would agree that the emotion had been wasted. (Laughter.)

Lord and Lady Howard de Walden have given £2,000 to the Metropolitan Hospital, Kingsland-road, so that two top wards may be fitted up for wounded soldiers.

FAMOUS GOLFER KILLED.

Captain John Graham Falls In Gallant Charge At Ypres.

Captain John Graham, the famous amateur golfer, has been killed in action with the Liverpool Scottish in Belgium.

According to news received at Liverpool Captain Graham fell during a gallant charge at Ypres.

Captain Graham was once placed by Mr. "Chic" Evans, the American expert, among the greatest golfers in the world.

As a youngster he had the benefit of the best of coaching from experts like John Ball and H. H. Hilton, and it was not long before he was playing a strong game.

Probably all the honours of the Royal Liverpool Club fell to him, and probably no club could at one time have produced three amateurs to beat these three.

He was four times in the final of the amateur championship, and in 1906 his score was the best amateur figure in the open championship at Muirfield, being 306 to the 300 of James Braid (the winner). He twice won the St. George's Vase—a stroke competition at Sandwich—doing 154 in 1904, which up to that time was a record, and 146 last year, which, of course, constituted a new record.

CAPTAIN JOHN GRAHAM.

TRENCHES 12 YARDS APART.

Officer's Dying Wish To Be Buried In The Ditch His Men Were Defending.

During a visit to the French Armies in the West the special correspondent of the Exchange walked two and a half miles along a communication trench to the middle of the Apremont Forest, where French and Germans face one another in trenches 12 yards apart.

The positions of both sides are extremely strong, he says, as the rocky character of the ground is a natural aid to defensive operations.

We penetrated to the first line and found the trenches fitted up with amazing comfort, not excluding electric light.

At one point was a tombstone bearing the name of a lieutenant whose remains lay beneath. It was the officer's dying wish that he should be buried where his troops continued to fight, and they reverently laid him beneath the trench.

Through a loophole we could see shapeless masses lying on the ground separating us from the enemy trenches. They were bodies that had lain there for many weeks, and neither side can go out to bring them in, even at night.

A SOLDIER AND A SPORT.

Captain E. G. Mylne, of the Irish Guards, who has died of wounds, was a well-known Army pedestrian. His commission with the rank of captain was gazetted in October, and he was attached to the 1st Battalion.

MAJOR KILLED WHILE FLYING.

Major H. M. Lumsden was killed at Brooklands aerodrome yesterday while a passenger in an aeroplane. Engine trouble occurred when the machine was scarcely 200ft. up, and it fell nose first. The pilot was only slightly hurt, but Major Lumsden died from his injuries five hours after the accident. The aeroplane was wrecked.

CIGARETTE FUND CONTRIBUTIONS.

We are asked to point out that Miss Gretta Holmes, who sent a donation of £3 a day or two ago, lives at Galbally, Tipperary, and must not be confused with anyone living at Tipperary. Our first acknowledgment of her subscription was, we regret, not quite correct.

To-day's list is as follows:—

GOOD NEWS FOR STOUT PEOPLE.

RAPID FAT REDUCTION WITHOUT EXERCISES OR STARVATION DIETS.

"One great objection to exercises for fat reduction," says a noted Health Scientist, "is the after exhaustion and discomfort they generally cause those who adopt this method of becoming slender. Yet superfluous fat can be rapidly and surprisingly reduced in a more simple way. Get a dram of quassia chips and three ounces of cirola bark extract from any chemist. Put the quassia chips in a pan and pour a cupful of boiling water over them, then after they have stood for a minute strain the liquid through a cloth and add the cirola bark extract. Rub this lotion into the fatty parts of the body, hips, abdomen, chin, or wherever excessive fat exists, for about ten minutes night and morning by a circular movement of the hand. As the preparation is absorbed by the skin it dissolves the fat tissues underneath, at the same time tightening the loosened skin, and leaving it beautifully smooth and firm."—Advt.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA'S TOUR OF MERCY.

Her Majesty To Drive Through London To-morrow.

ROYAL ROSES FOR CHARITY.

Queen Alexandra will make her accustomed
"Alexandra Day" drive through some of the principal streets of London to-morrow.

Her Majesty desires especially to encourage the devoted workers and their supporters in a form of mercy that is, indeed, twice blessed. The making of the artificial roses gives constant employment to large numbers of blind persons, and the sale of them is entirely for the benefit of deserving charities which, at the present time, specially need all the help that can be afforded to them.

As to the personal side of the celebration, Queen Alexandra is extremely gratified by the manner in which the movement has grown and flourished, but apart from this the personal element does not enter into the matter so far as the Queen is concerned.

The aim dearest to her heart is to show appreciation of the willing service which so many of her admirers are giving in an excellent cause, and to afford the utmost possible financial aid to philanthropic agencies so greatly in need of it.

THE ROYAL ROUTE.

Her Majesty will leave Marlborough House at 3 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, and the following is the proposed route to be taken:—

- | | |
|------------------------|------------------------|
| St. James's-street. | Bank. |
| Piccadilly. | Queen Victoria-street. |
| Apsley-gate. | Cannon-street. |
| Hyde Park (east side). | St. Paul's Churchyard. |
| Marble Arch. | Ludgate Hill. |
| Oxford-street. | Fleet-street. |
| New Oxford-street. | Strand. |
| Holborn. | Trafalgar-square. |
| Holborn Viaduct. | Cockspur-street. |
| Newgate-street. | Pall Mall. |
| Cheapside. | To Marlborough House. |
| Poultry. | |

There are, it is explained, many other centres
Queen Alexandra would like to visit, but the route is already as long as can possibly be managed, and as her Majesty has so much to get through in the time at her disposal it may be expected that she will not find it possible to make stops by the way.

The most Queen Alexandra is likely to be able to manage is to drive very slowly where the sellers are most busy and the crowds largest. Her Majesty will use an open landau.

In a letter to the Daily Sketch the Duchess of Portland, the chairman of the executive committee responsible for the arrangements, appeals to everyone buying a rose to give double what would be given in normal circumstances. She points out that "Rose Day" will afford the only means of celebrating the Prince of Wales's birthday this year, and urges those unable to purchase roses personally to send her a donation at 10, West Bolton-gardens,
S.W.

WAR LOAN SECRET.

Chance For Every Patriot To Help In Providing The Silver Bullets.

The secret of the War Loan had been well kept, considering the magnitude of the operation and the many details which had to be arranged. It is a striking testimony of the manner in which Treasury affairs are being now managed that neither the Stock Exchange nor Lombard-street—taken, of course, as a whole—had any ideas up to three o'clock yesterday what was the nature of the proposals that the Government intended to bring forward.

That the Loan will be popular goes without saying. The terms are devised to meet all classes; also the unfortunate holders of Consols and existing Annuities are not forgotten. They have an option of conversion into the new War Loan, the amount of which, of course, cannot be stated, as it cannot be known until after the subscription list is closed, and the date of conversion has expired, to what extent the latter privilege has been availed of.

Germany forces the public to subscribe the necessary funds for carrying on the war, but in this country we rely upon the people for voluntary assistance, and on this occasion we have little doubt that the response will be immediate and widespread.

The prospectus of the Loan is advertised elsewhere, and we commend it to the notice of all our readers, as there is scarcely an individual who cannot participate in some form or another in this public issue of war stock, and we hope that every patriotic person will seize the opportunity of contributing his quota towards the expense of the war.

The old-fashioned elastic stockings are in many cases a source

The "Varivane" avoids these dangers, and has many novel features that have secured it great popularity.

RUPTURED?

Then do not imagine that it is necessary for you to have the pain and worry of an operation, or to put up with the dangerous appliances sold almost everywhere nowadays. My Appliance is so constructed that it applies gentle pressure to the rupture, and what is even more important, it exercises that pressure in the right direction. I have come across many cases which have been taken in time, and where, by the wearing of my simple and inexpensive appliance, a permanent cure has been effected.

Every sufferer should write to me giving full particulars of the kind of Rupture, whether left, right, or double; sex of person, age and occupation, and any further details which will enable me to decide the most suitable pattern for you.

In my Appliance there are no bothersome buckles or dangerous springs. It is so constructed that it is impossible to slip, no matter whether you are walking, running, cycling or performing your usual duties in life. It is easily adjusted, and it is Sanitary.

Write me to-day, and you shall have my personal advice without any obligation on your part, and remember that I do not ask you for two or three guineas as some advertisers. My half-guinea Appliance is usually sufficient in 80 per cent. of the cases which I come across. Write to-day to

THE NEW RIVER-SIDE CLUB AT MAIDENHEAD.

A party on the river. They do not seem to have a care in the world, although it is war time. Even the bulldog is nice and cool.

Miss Peggy Greenhough, Mr. Jack May, Miss Irene Hammond, and Miss Billy Carleton.

The very latest club is the new River-side Murray's at Maidenhead, the week-end resort of people whom you associate with the West-end. Here stage favourites and others who figure in personal paragraphs have a very pleasant time on the river and the tree-shaded lawns.
