

Handwritten text in a highly decorative, cursive script, likely a form of Arabic calligraphy, enclosed within a rectangular border. The text is densely packed and features elaborate flourishes and ligatures. The script is black on a light background, and the entire page is framed by a decorative border with a repeating floral pattern.